Anglican Prayer Beads

Sunday, October 2, 11:00 AM

On Sunday, October 2nd, Eunice Barton will hold a workshop for those interested in making Anglican Prayer beads. A sign-up sheet is on the table in the back of the church to determine how many bead kits we will need. Anglican prayer beads, also known as the Anglican rosary or Anglican chaplet, are a loop of strung beads used chiefly by Anglicans in the Anglican Communion. Anglican prayer beads were developed in the latter part of the 20th century within the Episcopal Diocese of Texas and this Anglican devotion has spread to other Christian denominations, including Lutherans, Methodists, the Reformed, and others, thus giving rise to the term Christian prayer beads. Anglican prayer bead sets consist of thirty-three beads divided into groups. There are four groups consisting of seven beads with additional separate and larger beads separating the groups. The number thirty-three signifies the number of years that Christ lived on the Earth, while the number seven signifies wholeness or completion in the faith, the days of creation, and the seasons of the Church year. Even if you are not interested in making prayer beads, all are invited to stay for coffee and conversation. Hope you will join us!

Books Wanted

Calling all readers! When you finish that book you are reading and know you won't be reading it again, please consider donating it to the church. We have two "book stations". Our Little Free Library is on the post outside the front door of the church (thanks, Ted Wolf, for building it!). We also have a book shelf just inside the Christian Education building doors that people are invited to take. Both stations are looking pretty bare these days. Fiction is the most popular in either paperback or hard cover form. Your generosity allows others to enjoy reading for pleasure!
